Semantico Solutions

Semantico can provide publishers with a complete end-to-end online publishing solution. By using our two key products, publishers take control of the publishing and selling processes for their online content.

SIPP (Semantico Information Publishing Platform) is a suite of web services for building and managing online content that provides a future-proof, scalable solution. Publishers can create multiple websites which, while they may appear very different at the user interface, will all inherit SIPP's in-built rich functionality. When integrated with Semantico's SAMS access management software, SIPP enables publishers to manage and maximise subscription income.

SAMS (Semantico Access Management System) is a comprehensive product suite that provides a flexible and sophisticated approach to managing access control, subscription renewals, reporting and contact information across multiple product sites.
